Paracas

Discover

Paracas is a coastal town with vast beaches, seaside residences, a yacht club, and majestic hotels. Discovering each of its corners is a way of understanding its nature, balance, and tranquility.
In Paracas you can find traditional residences blended in with five-star hotels that dazzle visitors with their luxury and comfort. Ocean view spas, massage sessions on the sand, ballrooms, and infinity pools that merge in the Pacific Ocean. It is possible to reach Paracas on private yachts that tour with champagne and appetizers to the islands of Ballestas, San Gallan, and Chincha.
Taste

Paracas is a source of fresh seafood products that are harmoniously mixed to create delicious dishes that come from a strong but humble fishing tradition. It is the land of ceviche, grilled fish, seafood, and dishes prepared with local legumes such as the delicious chupe de pallares (soup made with corn, rice, and milk), carapulcra (dried meat and potato stew), and delicate desserts like refined tejas made with manjar blanco, which is a local caramel milk, pecans, candied figs or lemons, and is coated with hard icing.
The Paracas National Reserve is a protected area that features breathtaking landscapes. Its blue sea contrasts with the white and golden colors of the desert, the gentle breeze livens up the blazing sun and the beaches welcome everyone wishing to enjoy its cool waters. Just off shore are The Ballestas Islands, a world of biodiversity, home to about 36 marine and terrestrial mammals as well as 215 migratory birds.
The Paracas desert is full of unique dunes where you can see memorable sunrises and sunsets, have luxury picnics in unique sceneries under the stars, and go on excursions that let you be in contact with a magical setting that leads to endless conversations.
